

Since 1939

Rochester History

is a scholarly journal that provides informative and entertaining articles about the history and culture of Rochester, Monroe County, and the Genesee Valley. First published in January 1939 by then-Assistant City Historian Blake McKelvey, the journal seeks to expand knowledge of local history and culture. The journal studies local history as a microcosm of our nation's history, an approach that has brought insight and understanding to scholars and researchers around the globe.

Rochester History is published biannually (spring and fall) by the Central Library of Rochester and Monroe County. It is funded in part by the Frances Kenyon Publication Fund, established in memory of Ms. Kenyon's sister, Florence Taber Kenyon, and her friend Thelma Jeffries.
